Forward-looking statement

In this Annual report, we have disclosed the Company's objectives, expectations and forecasts to enable investors to comprehend our prospects and take informed investment decisions. This report and other statements – written and oral – that we periodically make may be forward-looking within the meaning of applicable securities laws and regulations. We have tried wherever possible to identify such statements by using words such as 'anticipates', 'estimates', 'expects', 'projects', 'intends', 'plans', 'believes' and words of similar substance in connection with any discussion of future performance.

Although we believe that we have been prudent in our assumption, actual results may differ materially from those expressed in the statement.

The achievement of results is subject to risks, uncertainties and even inaccurate assumptions.

To all our Stakeholders,

Welcome to yet another edition of the Emami Annual Report!

When we started presenting our annual report in the form of a magazine, a number of people asked 'A magazine? Really?'

The advantages of an exhaustive reporting format soon began to emerge.

A number of shareholders at the AGM complimented the management for going against convention. They said they found the magazine engrossing. Some indicated the information reporting was comprehensive. Yet others indicated that they never realised the management depth of the Company until they read this differentiated treatment.

And that is precisely why we selected to extend the Annual Report beyond its conventional treatment – from a collection of numbers and strategic analyses towards a document that broadly captures the romance of the Company.

We hope you enjoy this edition!

Emami Limited is perhaps one of the few companies in India or may be in the world who have shown the courage to take a serious document like a Company’s Balance Sheet to the excellent levels of creativity. The magazine format is really unique which generates interest not only for shareholders but for any lay reader to go through the articles which are really well researched and informative. My best wishes are with the Company and I hope to see many more powerhouse of creativity in the Annual Reports of Emami Limited in the coming days.

Our key to SUCCESS

There has been just one secret behind the transformation of Emami into a frontline Indian FMCG company. The ability to understand latent unexpressed needs of consumers and translate them into clutter-cutting products. The result is a company that was valued at around ₹21,200 crore in market capitalisation as on 31st March 2016, growing by nearly 40 times in value since its Public Offer in 2005.

Emami is present in the fourth largest national sector. The sector touches billions, across geographies. The sector is overcrowded by organised and unorganised players. These players manufacture a large number of products. A number of these products are me-too and even counterfeit.

The aim is not to merely survive this environment; the objective is to succeed in it. This success needs to be derived from the identification of niches relatively insulated from competition. These niches are created (and occupied) by understanding where the external environment is trending, what consumers are likely to need and working backwards to create relevant and affordable products. Our edge lies in spotting categories that are unique, devoid of competitors and with a unique proposition, enabling us to enjoy absolute category leadership.

In this environment it would be easy to offer deep discounts and freebies in the pursuit of short-term visibility and market share but the strategy would be largely unsustainable and even brand-destroying.

Since inception, Emami's success has been derived from its keen understanding of Indian middle-class aspirational consumers. This competence is often under-appreciated; since India is a vast country with varied geographical and climatic conditions where consumer profiles change every 100 km, what one needs, is a product portfolio addressing diverse consumer requirements.

And this is where we come to something we are deeply proud about: Emami is a truly Indian company that addresses middle-class aspirational consumer needs by creating truly Indian brands.

Emami's consumer understanding extends beyond product functionality. When our consumer study indicated that nearly 30% of women's fairness creams were actually used by men, we studied user buying patterns. Men were not comfortable buying the product directly across the counter. There was a hesitation in admitting openly that men also needed to look fair. We worked on these cues and the result was that we introduced a fairness product exclusively for men - Fair and Handsome – supported by a communication strategy that empowered closet users to step out and buy the product. We didn't just launch a product; we created a category for the first time in India.

Or take the case of Nityam tablets. The conventional consumption of an ayurvedic laxative is cumbersome. We worked around this problem to introduce a convenient tablet. This innovation is not just about a new product introduction; it encourages a new form of consumption, graduating the consumer experience.

That brings us to four words that have made all the difference at Emami. Graduating the consumer experience. We don't merely plug product gaps; we create stand-out products. We don't just make consumers feel good about purchase; we graduate their experience to a different level. We don't just focus on therapeutic safety; we weave a deep Emami is among the few Indian FMCG players to extend deep into its rural market which accounts for more than 70% of the country's population. Here too, we progressively adapted our role: we graduated from marketing large SKUs to small affordable equivalents.

research-led ayurveda tradition into product safety. We don't just bank on ayurveda; we validate our products through competent safety studies.

Emami's success is derived from its niche ayurveda and herbal-based positioning as well as its strong innovation and new category incubation. We have leveraged ayurveda with modern-day science to deliver best, yet affordable, and effective products, which have been manufactured using advanced scientific and laboratory practices. Most of our manufacturing units are ISO 9001: 2000 compliant and accredited with ISO 14001: 2004 and ISO 18001: 2007 certifications.

It would have been defeating for a truly Indian company addressing its vast middle-class consumer base to be urban-driven. The reality is that Emami is among the few Indian FMCG players to extend deep into a rural market which accounts for more than 70% of the country's population. Here too, we progressively adapted our role: we graduated from marketing large SKUs to small affordable equivalents. Besides, we marketed products around attractive price points that encouraged enhanced value-addition without becoming expensive, creating a compelling volume-value play.

It would have been convenient for a truly Indian consumer products company to continue marketing within the heart of India on the grounds that this, given the extensive under-consumption, represented a world of an opportunity. Emami is a confident global Indian corporate; we customised our brands around the climatic and physical suitability of countries the world over. The result is that we extended our Indian multi-category leadership to international markets. And best of all, we did not merely market in some of these countries; we commissioned our first international manufacturing unit (Bangladesh) to address the needs of that geography.

It would have been time-consuming for an ambitious Emami to grow through the organic route. We selected to acquire businesses instead. In 2008, we acquired a multi-decade Zandu possessing a rich repository of ayurvedic knowledge and products. The acquisition was considered daring for its scale; we implemented the acquisition, repositioned acquired brands and the result is that the Zandu portfolio has trebled its domestic sales since acquisition. In 2015, we acquired the ayurvedic hair and scalp care business under the Kesh King brand (ayurvedic medicinal oil, aloe vera herbal shampoo and ayurvedic capsules) on the grounds that the ayurvedic hair and scalp-care category was extensively under-penetrated.

It is just not enough to create effective and affordable products of the best quality. They also need to be competently communicated to consumers. Emami's products are backed by robust communication understood by the masses. Our products have been consistently positioned around enhanced life quality. We complemented this pitch through the pioneering engagement of celebrity brand ambassadors.

Even as a strong consumer pull was created because of these initiatives, it was important to create a robust distribution system. We reached consumers everywhere; we made our products available in villages of population clusters of less than 10,000. The result is that we now have more than 2,900 distributors, a direct coverage of more than 6.4 lac retail outlets and indirect reach across more than 4 million retail outlets. Even in the remotest part of the country, you are likely to find a store – possibly the smallest shack – marketing Emami products across the counter.

Outlook

Emami's Power Brands are growing and penetrating further. The brand extensions and new launches are receiving encouraging response. The International business is expected to grow aggressively. An improving economic landscape leading to higher disposable incomes and normal monsoons are expected to revitalise the rural economy and FMCG prospects. Emami is poised to take benefit of these growing opportunities.

The bottomline is that we find Emami waiting to capitalise extensively. Our story is just beginning.

Making people healthy and beautiful, naturally

It would be simplistic to assume that Emami is just in the business of products. Emami is infact in the business of making people healthy and beautiful, naturally.

People as in consumers. People as in employees. People as in channel partners. People as in investors. People as in the world at large.

Emami services the interests of these diverse stakeholders, sustaining its relevance and success.

Consumers, consumers, consumers!

Emami is one of the fastest growing FMCG companies in the fastest growing and youngest emerging economy. Because it is a company with the right mindset, right products that complement in the right market at the right time.

India does not just represent the world's largest middle-class cluster; the number of Indian households with more than a US$5,000 annual incomes doubled in just 15 years. As more households graduated to the middle-class, consumers evolved from the consumption of basic food items to FMCG and convenience-enhancing products. In the liberalisation decade, consumption growth more than doubled from 4% (1990-2002) to 11% (2003-14). Non-food consumption increased from 53% in 1990 to 69% in 2014 (Source: Euromonitor) indicating an increase in discretionary spending.

There has been a qualitative increase concurrent with the numerical: consumers are more concerned about looking good and feeling good than ever before; consumers are undergoing sweeping lifestyle transformations. These consumers, unlike their preceding generations, are more willing to spend to enhance their lifestyles.

Emami's success has been derived from the fact that the Company has not just addressed the quantum opportunity; it has addressed the more challenging qualitative transformation instead. Being in the right market is one thing; capitalising on the right idea has made all the difference.

The middle-class catalyst

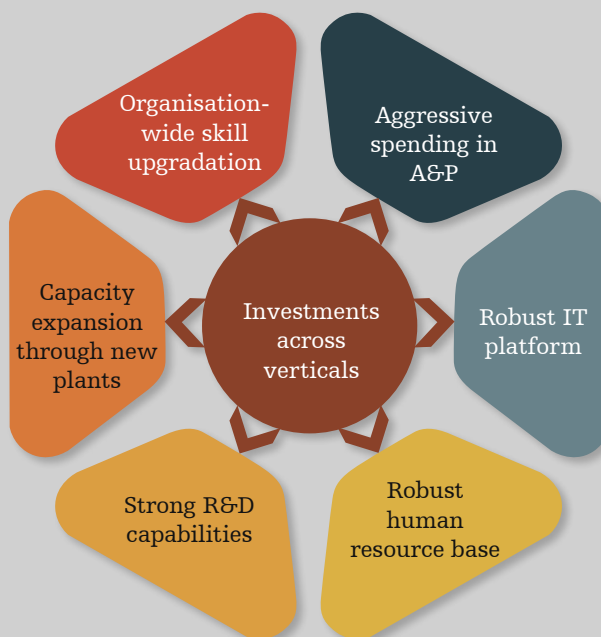

At Emami, it could have been easy to address the apex of the country's consumption pyramid, marked by enhanced brand respect and profitability. Emami selected to be contrarian; the Company addressed the attractive opportunity emerging out of the country's vast middle-class instead. There were a number of enduring reasons for this strategic decision.

One, India's middle class population would be 267 mn in 2016 [Source: NCAER].

Two, this middle-class is growing;

Emami's investments

the creation of a large body of consumers from the bottom of the pyramid is larger than the outflow of middle-class consumers into the affluent segment.

Three, the 'new' middle-class has been for long an extensively under-consumed population, where increase in incomes is translating into a significant transformation in the nature of products being consumed.

Four, this is a young middle-class, with a median age of 27 that is willing to experiment and transform lifestyles, the very basis of FMCG consumption.

Five, the combination of the largest middle-class on the one hand and unprecedented urbanisation on the other is driving people to live, look and feel better.

Six, there is a large middle-class consumption market across the world, incentivising the Company's extension to more than 60 countries with customised products.

Imbibing ayurveda

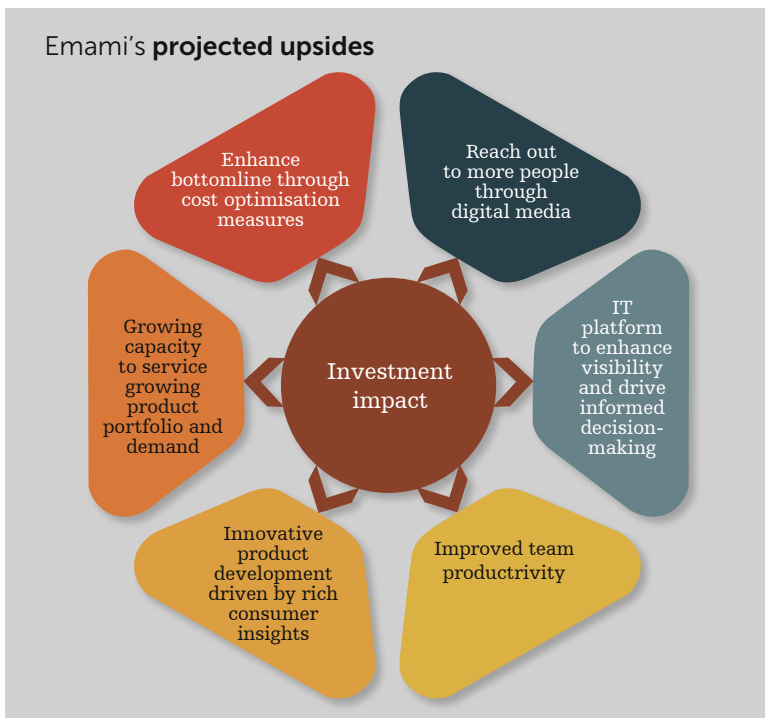

India's age old rich tradition of ayurveda is fast becoming a popular option of beauty and wellness globally. With more and more people opting for natural goodness in products, ayurvedic products have found shelf space in almost all households. The segment is largely untapped, thus offering huge growth potential. Emami's core strength has been its rich ayurvedic legacy. It has combined the traditional ayurveda with modern scientific techniques to make innovative products addressing various unmet needs of consumers.

Responding to emerging opportunities

If there is one thing that Emami has done well with respect to the country's middle-class, it has been to watch.

That's right.

The Company has observed changes transpiring in the country: how middle-class consumers buy, what consumers wear, what problems consumers face, what consumers discuss when they meet. These instances provided Emami a window not merely into how people are thinking; it provided Emami with an insight into the consumption transformation of possibly the most under-consumed large nation in the world.

This is how Emami's observation translated into path-breaking products:

Emami recognised how increasingly it was not considered vain for men to appear presentable; the Company launched Fair and Handsome Men's fairness cream.

Hitesh Doshi always envied fair-skinned people. It would happen when he would gawk at those who were fair-skinned when his eyes suddenly fell on the giant billboard above him – Shah Rukh Khan advertising Emami's Fair and Handsome men's fairness cream. Without wasting a second, he bought it with the result that today, he has become a strong advocate for the product!

Emami recognised how increasing pollution translated into a growing incidence of skin care needs; the Company responded with Fair & Handsome Instant Fairness Facewash ensuring that the tough male skin gets thoroughly cleansed.

Emami recognised how the incidence of 'eat-on-the-move' and increased eating out were resulting in digestion issues; the Company responded with Pancharistha providing long-term relief from indigestion.

Emami recognised how, in a fast-paced world, an increasing number of individuals encountered hair-related challenges; the Company launched 7 oils-in-one, reconciling the goodness of seven oils and acquired the ayurvedic hair and scalp care business under the Kesh King brand.

'You're balding!' The words that sent Arundhati Sen into a tizzy. As she went from one salon to another, experimenting with therapies and products to correct hair loss, she chanced upon Emami's 7 oils-in-one product when she went to buy the morning groceries. After regular usage, the best compliment came from her office colleague when she said, 'Nice hairstyle!'

Emami recognised that an increasing number of consumers needed a therapeutic oil that would provide instant cooling and release stress; it introduced Navratna Cool Oil that virtually kick-started the growth of an entire category.

Work pressure finally got the better of Mohsin Akhtar when one day he collapsed on the bed after returning home. Late in the morning when he woke up, he was determined that he had to put a stop to his hectic lifestyle and manage everyday pressures better. So he went up to his father, his friend, philosopher and guide, who immediately recommended that Emami's Navratna Cool Oil be applied on the scalp every day. Today, Mohsin is back to his happy self.

Emami perceived the growing incidence of constipation, with studies indicating at least 14% of India's urban population suffering from chronic constipation and a fifth of these patients between 45 and 65 years (Source: Business World); the Company responded with Nityam Churna and tablets.

After watching the recent film Piku, Shalini Arora knew that she had to act fast in the interest of her 80-year old father who silently suffered from constipation. Her father was not fond of having a powder which he felt a little messy to consume. She experimented with Nityam Churna and the result was that her father overcame his problem in no time. Apart from a powder form, Emami introduced its Nityam Churna in a tablet form which revolutionised the sector.

Emami understood the growing need of a solution which is not cosmetic but helps in addressing various skin issues starting from cuts to burns to cracked skin to cracked heels, among others. It introduced BoroPlus Antiseptic Cream – a boro-based ayurvedic solution addressing multiple skin problems. The all-round solution provided by the product helped it emerge as a market leader in its category.

Renu Denzongpa considers looking after a home the toughest job in the world, and she's probably right. This 40-something homemaker only had one complained about it though – her hands would become chapped and dry from various activities from washing clothes to cooking. Her husband provided just the solution, BoroPlus Antiseptic Cream, the ubiquitous cure-all for millions of Indians.

Headache, body ache and cold are common problems in India. Emami created the topical pain relief balm category, one of the most popular in the country.

Emami's Zandu Balm is a multipurpose pain relief solution while its Mentho Plus range provides relief for various kinds of headaches. With these two range of products, the Company holds nearly 60% market share in the category.

Akash Manjrekar works for a large multinational company, handling multiple projects and multiple clients at the same time. The stress that comes with the job can be overwhelming at times, making Akash suffer frequent headaches that brings his productivity to a halt. The answer was surprisingly what his grandmother had been telling him for years. Zandu Balm! Now all he needs to remain headache-free is a light dose rubbed on his temple.

The summer in India is hot, dry in places and humid in some other place. The summer heat causes discomfort to people working or travelling outside. Emami was quick to identify the need gap and introduced Navratna Cool Talc, providing a cooling effect with the use of the powder, providing relief in the summers.

Reshmi Kher recently moved from her home in Shimla to the nation's capital. Adjusting to the rapid pace of New Delhi was not as much the problem as was the blistering sun during the summer. After suffering from a host of dry skin issues and sunburnt and prickly skin, she heard about Navratna Cool Talc from a friend. She never looked back and can now brave the heat without a care.

Customised approach

At Emami, it would have been reasonable to believe that a simple plugging of the evident unmet consumer need would have been enough.

The Company extended beyond.

The Company selected to be present in niche categories, relatively well-protected from competition.

The Company was the first to introduce laxatives in tablet form with the objective to enhance consumer compliance and convenience. Emami leveraged the low unit pack (LUP) route to reach new customers, pricing products affordably. This route helped the Company achieve higher product acceptance and wider consumer base.

Kaajal came in a dibbi so the Company wondered why it should not provide balm in a dibbi as well. It launched Mentho

Plus in an easy-to-carry dibbi. The result: Mentho Plus dibbi sales now account for a majority of the brand's overall revenues. Similarly, BoroPlus and Navratna Oil LUPs account for more than 25% of the brand revenues, validating the success of the concept.

Effective communication

The Company aggressively promoted its brands through celebrity endorsements. Emami focused on aggressive marketing powered by celebrity endorsements like Amitabh Bachchan, Shah Rukh Khan, Hrithik Roshan, Kareena Kapoor Khan, Kangana Ranaut, Yami Gautam, Juhi Chawla, Shruti Haasan, Bipasha Basu, Sonakshi Sinha, Mahendra Singh Dhoni, Sourav Ganguly, M.C. Mary Kom, Saina Nehwal, Sushil Kumar, Sania Mirza, among others.

The Company invested extensively in brand-building:

more than 20% of the Company's revenues in 2015-16.

The Company extended from physical offtake to digital media and e-commerce; it created a unique mobile application addressing consumer queries related to skin issues. The result is that Emami has created a distinctive trust-based consumer connect.

Touching stakeholders

Emami extends far beyond than only touching the lives of consumers.

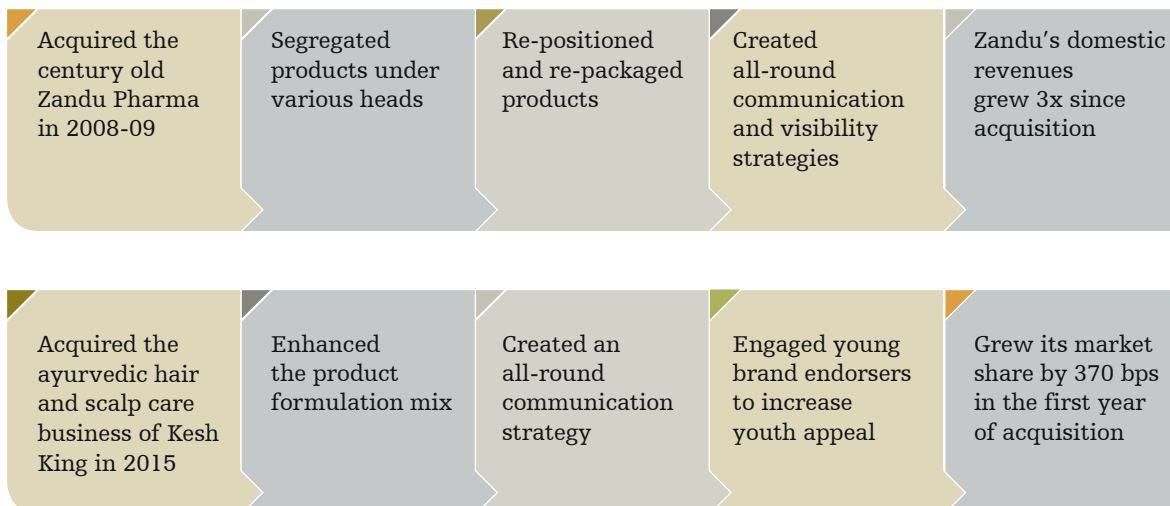

The Company touches a larger ecosystem: vendors, distributors, dealers and retailers.

Domestic trade channels:

Emami products are distributed through 2,900 dealers touching more than four million pan-Indian retail points. The Company's seven domestic manufacturing units are supported by five mother depots emami's strategic evolution

ACQUISITION-DRIVEN

and 33 distribution warehouses.

Employees: Emami employs nearly 2900 individuals across countries. The Company's unique management hybrid comprises promoters who outline a strategic direction and professionals who drive day-to-day management. Emami is a multi-cultural employer; the Company comprised a growing number of international employees. Over the years, this multi-cultural representation has enhanced the Company's diversity and its sensitised understanding of terrain realities, strengthening its consumer proximity.

Shareholders: Shareholders represent an important index of the Company's success. Emami's transformation has been most visible in its sustained wealth-creation for shareowners. The Company's market capitalisation of around ₹21,200 crore is among the highest in the country's FMCG space. Shareholders who invested ₹1,000 in 100 shares (₹4,000 after the rights issue) are presently owners of Emami shares worth around ₹7.8 crore – a 19,572-fold appreciation. Besides, shareholder wealth increased nearly 40-fold following the investment in a public issue in March 2005 and nine-fold following the July 2009 QIP. The Company paid nearly ₹850 crore in dividends in just the five years leading to 2015-16.

Social responsibility

Besides, Emami engages extensively with society, contributing to the creation of school infrastructure across locations (especially toilet facilities in girl's schools), women's empowerment, healthcare, livelihood initiatives and community marriages.

Confident optimism

Emami is not just a company addressing the personal care and health needs of individuals.

The Company believes that by making it possible for Indians to live healthier, it is engaged in catalyzing economic progress – wherever its products are sold.

The Company is optimistic that this role will only increase.

India is likely to add to its workforce than probably any other country over the coming years; this single country is expected to constitute 28% of the global workforce by 2030.

India is also younger than most countries; its population, with a median age of 27, means a younger population willing to alter consumption patterns.

Besides, urbanisation has triggered an occupational transition from low-paying agricultural jobs to higher-paying manufacturing and service engagements.

This indicates years of relevance and optimism for Emami.

This then is just the beginning...

“Emami performed better despite challenging conditions!”

Q How would you evaluate the performance of the Company in 2015-16?

The year under review was filled with challenges for Indian FMCG companies: a sub-normal economic growth, unfavourable weather conditions, muted rural wage growth, geopolitical unrest in key economies and a volatile rupee. Even one of these factors would have been bad enough; we encountered all of these concurrently. Despite such an uncongenial environment, we maintained our market share and reported a topline and cash profit growth of 18.3% and 18.1%, respectively.

Q How did Emami report this performance amidst such challenges?

The sheer size of our product basket strengthened our share even in categories where the market had stagnated. Despite making sizeable upfront investments, scaling capacities, expanding teams and aggressively promoting launches (all of which were expensed from the P&L account), Emami reported a 170 bps increase in EBIDTA margins, finishing the year at an all time high of 26.1%.

Q How did Emami rein in costs?

We benefited from a decline in the prices of crude oil and a number of agro products. The costs of menthol, vegetable oils and packing materials used extensively in our products remained relatively affordable, helping us add basis points to our margins. Finally, instead of allowing market conditions to dictate our profitability, we proactively initiated Project Udaan with McKinsey to enhance process efficiency and margins.

Q What changes transpired as a result?

There were a number of them actually. Let me go over them one by one:

Sales: This aspect focused on using proprietary analytical tools to bolster the general and modern trade segments. In the general trade segment, measures like range selling, coverage optimisation, retailer loyalty and capability building programmes ensured last-mile reach and enhanced sales force excellence. The programme involved training over 1,500 salesmen across India in best-in-class selling processes. In the modern trade segment, best-in-class practices were incorporated and the whole setup was revamped. End-to-end engagement was reinvigorated across all national retail chains. Operational levers were put in place to ensure better fill-rates and joint account plans were created along with modern trade accounts.

Packaging: As far as this aspect was concerned, a cutting edge design-to-value process was operationalised and both the product and packaging attributes were redesigned. Features that were valued by the consumers were added and unnecessary frills were done away with. A cross-functional team with members from various departments was deployed to carry out these changes.

Procurement: On the procurement front, a few top international vendors were inducted after conducting thorough checks pertaining to quality and consistency. This not only helped us procure certain materials at competitive rates, but also encouraged Indian vendors to reevaluate their terms of trade.

○ Shareholders were apprehensive that the increase in borrowings following the Kesh King acquisition would erode margins.

Prior to the acquisition, Emami had net cash in excess of ₹800 crore on its books. The acquisition was therefore a premeditated one with only about half of the ₹1,684-crore (including duties and taxes) acquisition being financed through borrowings. Besides, we leveraged the power of our Balance Sheet to limit interest costs to less than 2% of the total revenues. Being a cash-rich company, Emami expects to generate adequate free cash and repay this entire debt in two years. In view of this, one must assure shareholders that the revenue generation potential of the Company will continue to remain unaffected and that the acquisition will only strengthen our earnings quantum and qualitative excellence.

○ How has the acquisition panned out thus far?

It has worked well. There were some teething issues in terms of integrating operations with our in-house protocols. By the end of the year, we had ironed out the logistical issues and stabilised offtake. We also introduced Kesh King in a smaller SKU to widen the market and increase our share. However, the full benefits of this acquisition will start manifesting from FY2016-17.

○ What were the major challenges that Emami encountered during the fiscal gone by?

I have already listed a number of challenges pertaining to a subdued economy, geopolitical turmoil and currency devaluation that affected most sectoral players. Since a majority of our products are seasonal, erratic weather also affected our sales. In view of this, we balanced our portfolio through the introduction of non-season (perennial) products. Over the next few years, we expect to launch more weather-agnostic products to de-risk ourselves from meteorological vagaries. Besides, we are fortunate that a large number of our products are niche and relatively insulated from these unforeseen aberrations.

Looking ahead, there are a host of exciting offerings in the Emami pipeline that are expected to drive revenues, margins and profits across the foreseeable future.

Q What were some highlights of the year under review?

We unveiled a number of products that proved successful. In the consumer care range, we launched a cocoa-based moisturising lotion and a winter cream for men, which were readily accepted in the marketplace. We supported these launches with eye-catching promotional campaigns featuring prominent brand ambassadors.

In the healthcare vertical, we launched products like Nityam tablets, a first-of-its-kind laxative in tablet form and a bottled honey variant, which was unique in the sense that it contained no added sugar. These products, being completely different from most existing offerings, allowed us to carve a niche for ourselves and address discerning consumers.

There are a host of exciting offerings in the Emami pipeline that are expected to drive revenues, margins and profits across the foreseeable future.

Q What threats do the competition pose?

We have always made it a point to occupy spaces marked by relatively low competition with substantial upsides. What this means is that more often than not, we are virtually creating product categories, as opposed to entering existing ones and jostling for market share with established players. Besides, when our sectoral peers promote ayurvedic products, they raise the level of water for the entire category by enhancing consumer awareness. Being one of the most prominent players in this category, we stand to gain from macroeconomic developments like these. So to answer your question: competition has never really been a threat for us.

Q How is Emami investing in premiumisation?

Emami has always attempted to provide quality-driven, value-for-money products to the masses. Consider our cool oil: it is not a low-priced product; it is a mass product commanding a reasonable premium but delivering supplementary benefits. Our understanding is that today's consumers are willing to pay that premium in exchange for product efficacy, translating into value-addition for the consumer and greater offtake for us.

Q What makes you optimistic of Emami's prospects?

A: The Central Government's

allocation of a sizeable corpus towards rural development is expected to drive disposable incomes and enhance product sales. Why do we think this is a groundbreaking development? Because our rural business contributed nearly half our revenues in FY2015-16. The contemporary rural consumer is aspirational, conscious about looking good and living healthy. Hence, we believe that rural India is going to make a weightier contribution to our numbers in times to come. And if the monsoons turn out better than expected, then these numbers could skyrocket. We also believe that the international markets will start improving and our healthcare vertical will prove to be a key growth driver.

Q What is your big message to the shareholders?

Our ability to engage with consumers will continue incentivising product development, bolster revenues and strengthen profits. We will continue to be a margins-accretive business that creates new categories and thereafter accounts for a lion's share of the same. This, precisely has been the lynchpin of our ability to create value for our entire stakeholder family, over the years of our existence.

consumer care

"Caring for consumers means getting the basics right. This entails shrinking the lead time from product conceptualisation to launch, preventing short-term priorities from superseding long-term goals, making adequate funds available to drive innovation and ensuring that teams function cohesively."

– Mohan Goenka, Director

● THE SUCCESS FORMULA

Emami has established a reputation by relentlessly launching path-breaking products. It optimised investments by creating a hedge against over-spending. It engaged with industry experts to ascertain the impact of innovation. It introduced mainstream products like deodorants, fairness creams, face washes and hair oils. It targeted the youth by engaging youthful celebrities like Hrithik Roshan, Kangana Ranaut, Parineeti Chopra, Shruti Hassan, Huma Qureshi and Sania Mirza, among others, endorse its brands.

LEVERAGING BRAND EXTENSIONS

The overarching philosophy at Emami is to address the latent needs of consumers. It introduced relevant extensions of existing brands. Through careful use of market research, Emami's product managers answer questions as: How much cannibalisation can be expected if a specific line extension is launched? Will the Company see greater sales? How many customers will be lost if an SKU is dropped? It is through an in-depth assessment of all these factors that decisions pertaining to brand extensions are arrived at.

For instance, Boroplus, the largest brand in the antiseptic cream vertical, was successfully extended to lotions and powders. Navratna Cool oil has spun off a talcum powder version and emerged as one of the most successful products of Emami in the recent past. Fair and Handsome lent its name to an instant fairness face wash and reaped the benefits of the goodwill generated by the original product. Despite late entry, the brand emerged as the third largest in the category. The Company also launched a first-of-its-kind winter specific men's fairness cream in 2015-16, which received an encouraging response in the marketplace.

RETAINING TOP-OF-THE-MIND AWARENESS

Indian companies spend about one of every three rupees earned on advertising in the year of launch of a specific product. Nielsen Research indicates that advertising is the second-most important factor with respect to year-one sales, ranking only behind distribution. Trade and consumer promotional campaigns account for another 30% of the launch spending. In view of this, Emami ensures top-of-the-mind awareness by spending as per situational demands. Here's proof: Emami increased its A&P spends (as a percentage of sales) from 15.2% in 2013-14 to more than 20% in 2015-16, making it one of the biggest spenders in terms of advertising in the industry.

"The result of our 'getting-the-basics-right' approach is evident. From a humble beginning, Emami grew its consumer care range by 18% CAGR in the decade ending 2015-16."

– Harsha V. Agarwal, Director

ACQUIRING PRODUCTS STRATEGICALLY

Adequately investing in the end-to-end innovation process and the necessary resources to bring a product to the market can be the difference between success and failure. This means making a great product is only half the job done. It is also imperative to keep one's ears close to the ground for up-and-coming products or products that were shelved due to the lack of a budget. Emami has over the years built for itself a reputation for acquiring brands and turning them around by harnessing speed, entrepreneurship and innovation to feed channels, brands and resources.

Following the success of Zandu and other acquisitions, Emami acquired the ayurvedic hair and scalp care business under the Kesh King brand. This acquisition brought Kesh King's portfolio in its entirety – a medicinal oil, an aloe vera-based herbal shampoo and conditioner and ayurvedic capsules – into the highly-fragmented ayurvedic hair and scalp care segment. Kesh King, with its ayurvedic ingredients, synced seamlessly with Emami's brand identity. Being a margin-accretive product, the acquisition is expected to not just pay back in a couple of years but also enhance long-term revenue visibility.

PRICING PRODUCTS PRUDENTLY

FMCG companies often wrongfully seek to achieve their promotional objectives through discounting, a short-term cash flow solution. Although discounting generates revenues, no sooner the promotion is over than the attractiveness of the product declines. How much should be charged for a new product? Charge too much and it won't sell- a problem that can be fixed relatively easily by reducing the price. Charging too little is far more dangerous: not only it means forgoing significant revenues but it also fixes the product's market-value proposition at a low level.

Precisely why Emami does not solely rely on discounts to catalyse offtake; instead, it uses something that psychologically impacts consumers – the combination of a value-additive approach and a tactful pricing strategy. To establish the price ceiling, Emami leverages its clear understanding of the product's USPs, savings that can be made on material procurement and procedural benefits through thorough market research and so on. The Company believes that the pricing of a product hinges on the value-addition offered by the product. As a matter of fact, consumers are more than willing to pay extra to jump on the 'brand wagon'.

Students of economics describe this phenomenon as the Veblen Effect which suggests that when prices of certain goods rise, their demand increases. The explanation behind this was that such goods possessed 'elite value' owing to which certain people would pay more as the price rose.

ENHANCING LOGISTICAL EFFICIENCY

And finally, there's the art of getting products to shelves whenever and wherever consumers need them. Recently, Emami integrated its IT platform till the distributor level to map demand-and-supply better and service trade channels efficiently. The Company engaged McKinsey to enhance its sales force effectiveness. During the past year, the Company extended its presence to 13,300 villages with populations less than 50,000. At the consumer level, Emami introduced sachet-based productisation to drive rural offtake. The Company backed these initiatives with relevant radio campaigns. It utilised modern trade channels and placed products in prominent new-age retail formats in a number of Tier-II and III cities.

In the upcoming fiscal, the Company intends to provide hand-held devices to its entire sales team to enhance a real-time understanding of market realities and increase its presence by 2 lac rural and urban outlets across the next two years, deepening its presence and driving revenues.

Navratna. The kind of success story that brand managers only dream of.

First the credentials: Navratna is the largest player in India's cool oil category. Accounts for a market share of 60.5% by volume. Its market share is nearly double its nearest competitor. It sells a whopping 200 crore units a year – more than 60 units every second.

The amazing thing is that despite a number of challenges, Navratna has kept its cool (excuse the pun).

"This by itself is the big story at Navratna," says Harsha V. Agarwal, Director. "Generally, you have a brand that leads its category for a few years but yields thereafter to new entrants who possess fresh positioning, innovative packaging and aggressive marketing. "The brand was launched in 1989 and since its inception has retained sectoral leadership. This success story continued during FY16 when Navratna grew its market share to a staggering 60.5% and 59.6% in terms of volume and value, respectively. These numbers tell you that there is something truly distinctive about this success story."

For instance, consider the challenges the brand faced during FY16. Summers are when people buy Navratna, the harsher the summer, the better for it. Last year, an early monsoon laid to rest hopes of a long summer. Rural offtake was affected due to reduced spending on key social schemes and multiple crop failures affecting rural incomes. The writing was on the wall: Navratna bottles would gather dust on shelves across the country.

Promptly, the Navratna team devised a counter-strategy: retain top-of-the-mind awareness using innovative means. Like conducting an on-the-spot massage campaign at the Kumbh Mela and the Vitthal Festival where millions of devotees embarked on a yatra to the Trimbakeshwar town and the Vitthal Temple in Maharashtra. Like offering free foot massages and champi to devotees. Like distributing free samples.

"These out-of-the-box strategies worked wonders," says Harsha V. Agarwal. "Wherever we conducted these recall-enhancing initiatives, we encountered an increase in offtake. A number of people who were provided a free sample, usually turned around to ask "Where can one buy this?" or "Can I get one more?"

Navratna is positioned as a natural remedy against stress, fatigue and sleeplessness. "Even though we have grown attractively in the last number of years, we have only scratched the surface," says Harsha V. Agarwal. "My estimate is that less than 16% of the market has been penetrated as the bulk of our opportunity lies outside the Indo-Gangetic region where we still need to seed the market."

This means only one thing. If Navratna is to carve out a larger share, it needs to reposition its identity – from mere cooling oil to efficacious stress reliever. To plug this need, the Company introduced a stronger version (Navratna Extra Thanda Oil) for consumers seeking a more intense cooling experience.

In line with the overall strategy, Navratna Oil inducted celebrity brand ambassadors to drive product popularity. Amitabh Bachchan, perhaps the biggest celebrity in Bollywood, has been the face of this brand for a decade.

Recently, Navratna Oil was relaunched in fresh and contemporary packaging; the range was extended by introducing Navratna Almond Cool Oil targeted at modern, confident, multi-tasking women who prefer a non-sticky variant for stress relief. The variant will continue to offer the cooling properties of Navratna Cool Oil - relief from tension, headache and sleeplessness by leveraging the natural goodness of nine herbs including amla, bhringaraj, pudina ka phul, as well as almonds. Product endorsement by Shilpa Shetty will help connect with the target segment.

Quick read

Navratna is a dominant market leader in the cool oil segment.

Less than 16% of the cooling oil market in India has been penetrated.

Navratna extended into an Extra Cool variant and cool talc.

Amitabh Bachchan

5-YEAR CAGR	MARKET SHARE BY VOLUME
19% Navratna Cool Talc	25% Navratna Cool Talc
13% Navratna Cool Oils	61% Navratna Cool Oils

*As on 31st March 2016

Navratna cooling talc is positioned specifically as a value-added talcum powder to effectively address summertime discomfort. Endorsed by superstar Shah Rukh Khan, the brand's tagline – 'Duniya ka sabse chota AC' became an instant hit with the masses. In FY2015-16, Emami launched a new 'Orangey Blast' variant endorsed by Shruti Haasan.

Navratna also launched Navratna i-cool talc. Powered by the 'Intelligent Sweat Sense' technology. Created with the goodness of pudina, thyme, lavender, evening primrose, vetiver, chamomile and rose.

The product offers cooling not only during application; it releases an instant cooling burst for the second time when sweating begins.

The initial response has been encouraging. The Company hopes to ride the momentum through differentiation in the cool talc market.

Navratna's unique 'khoya paaya' initiative

health is wealth

How Emami repositioned its healthcare range to create a money-spinner.

Emami's healthcare range got a fresh lease of life when the Company acquired Zandu in 2008-09. It provided the Company access to the rich ayurvedic legacy of Zandu and helped it to branch into ethical, OTC and generics categories. Emami repositioned the Zandu portfolio to introduce products that enhanced recall, revenues and market share.

Research, research, research

Emami reinforced the business by investing in research and development. It inducted seasoned personnel from the industry to lead its research initiatives. It reached out to allopathic doctors, ayurvedic practitioners and chemists to assess the needs of consumers. This level of research for marketing ayurvedic products was and still remains unprecedented.

Emami zeroed in on lifestyle diseases that are chronic in nature. Prolonged use of conventional medicines had side-effects. Emami focused on drugs that complemented allopathic medicines and provided long-term relief without side-effects. As a means to this end, it conducted clinical studies and publicised its findings digitally. All Emami products are developed proprietarily using high quality scientific tools. The products are herbal; the capsule shells are vegetarian. The Company also carried out herbal-drug interaction studies to determine how Emami products behave in conjunction with other drugs, in what was a first-of-its-kind initiative for an Indian ayurvedic company. Emami also conducted toxicity studies for each of its new products.

First-rate quality

Emami set up a bio-resources department responsible for sourcing quality ayurvedic raw materials. It created an agronomy protocol for the cultivation of several herbs, ensuring qualitative consistency. Emami's R&D centre was approved as a drug testing lab for ayurvedic, siddha, unani and homeopathic products by the Ministry of AYUSH, Government of India. Moreover, Emami's R&D lab received NABL accreditation from the Department of Science and Technology, making it one of the few players in the sector to get this recognition.

Makeover

The Company initiated a rebranding project for the entire Zandu portfolio to unify the brands and restructure communication lines. The pilot project was executed in Andhra Pradesh and the Company expects to extend this pan-India.

Outlook

The next few years will witness several OTC products launched by Emami across categories. The Company also started the test marketing of herbal products addressing lifestyle diseases; it created a sales team similar to pharma companies which visits doctors across the country and explains the efficacy of its products backed by various product manuals.

ZANDU PANCHARISTHA

“THE CHALLENGE IS TO MAKE ATTRACTIVE PACKAGING FOR TRADITIONAL PRODUCTS.”

A CONVERSATION WITH
BABU DATTA,
MANAGING DIRECTOR,
EVOLVE CREATIVE LIMITED, UK

Q Tell us about your association with Emami.

I have been associated with Emami for the last 10 years as a consultant looking into branding and packaging. Creating a successful packaging for a product is a complex science. It makes the first impression on a potential consumer. If the packaging doesn't look attractive or provide the necessary information, he or she may not choose to buy.

Q. What has Emami done in this area?

Emami has been engaged in offering ayurvedic products; traditionally these products have come in unattractive packaging. We focused on creating a packaging that made them look sophisticated and in sync with the times.

Q. What do you keep in mind while designing the packages so as to avoid duplicity?

Knock-off products are a big problem across the entire South Asian region. In this age, making counterfeit packaging has become a cottage industry. We have to focus harder to create unique packaging. We came up with 3D motifs and holograms so that consumers could feel a product and differentiate between the original and the counterfeit easily. Besides, considerable investments were made in distinctive moulds to differentiate packaging.

Q. How has it been working with Emami?

Emami is the epitome of entrepreneurship – always looking to innovate. It has faced numerous challenges in the last few years and emerged winners. Besides, we have also sharpened our understanding of consumer mindset and positioned products accordingly. This helps the Company create an inimitable identity – traditional (in terms of ingredients) yet progressive (in terms of processes) revolutionising the personal care and healthcare segments.

What are the top four products that you take immense pride in having created packaging for?

Let me tell you about them one by one.

BoroPlus: BoroPlus is one of the flagship brands of Emami but for a long time it was languishing on the back shelves simply because the packaging wasn't eye-catching enough. We were instrumental in giving the product a much-required facelift. The existing packaging is contemporaneous and sharply highlights the USPs of the product. Such has been the success of this new avatar that the other line extensions of the product now imbibe a similar design aesthetic.

HE: With numerous brands in the market jostling for space and consumer attention, our brief was to come up with a packaging that resonated with the new alpha male. We created a sophisticated yet elegant structural design and emphasised on improving the consumer experience.

Zandu: One of the major challenges for us was the repositioning of Zandu, which had a plethora of ethical, OTC and HCD products when it was acquired. We needed to provide a complete makeover whilst retaining familiarity. We generated strong brand recall on the back of the packaging.

Navratna: Navratna needed a fresh and contemporary look. We were careful as it was an established brand and consumers were sensitive to a radical change. We redesigned the pack to depict the progress of the brand while holding onto its sense of ubiquity.

“STRONG INNOVATION PIPELINE TO MAKE EMAMI FUTURE-READY.”

Please describe your association with Emami.

Q I advise Emami on strategies, helping the Company focus on its purpose and priorities, develop a strong, broad leadership and build robust replicable systems.

Let me explain this. Emami was born out of an entrepreneurial format. Since the beginning of its journey, the world of business has undergone a sea change and Emami has adeptly grown in this dynamic environment. From being an entrepreneurial start-up to a FMCG major today, Emami has successfully and seamlessly evolved into a structurally formatted professional Company led by an aggressive and dynamic promoter management team. Amidst a changing environment in a highly competitive marketplace, Emami is ensuring that the Company stays well ahead in the race by aligning the management’s vision and mission with that of the workforce in the shop floor.

Why is this increasingly relevant?

Simple. At a time when the global slowdown, particularly China, has affected the growth of global corporates, the world is turning towards Indian opportunities. Our understanding is that this will inevitably lead to increased competition for talent. For a growth-hungry company like Emami, it would be imperative to attract and retain the best talent at a time when everyone else would also want to do the same.

There is another reason that makes such an initiative a priority. With competition increasing, there is a growing need to enhance productivity. This productivity increase is not likely to come out of thin air at the press of a button; Emami’s rich entrepreneurship culture is also being aggressively seeded and fostered across all employees and all locations for that enhanced productivity.

How does Emami intend to address this challenge?

For Emami to achieve its vision, the Company is making itself future-ready by keeping a robust innovation plan in the pipeline. The FMCG industry is a highly dynamic space to be in. The consumer profile is undergoing change with every passing day. With the spread of new technology, communication devices and education, consumers are becoming more informed. Hence, a sustained practice of the highest form of innovation is the key to future growth.

I am happy to note that the senior management at a future-facing company like Emami is seized of this priority. My role is to add value to Emami’s process of developing a roadmap to determine the extent of achievable growth within the existing pipeline and thereafter estimate what would be additionally needed to achieve the goals.

I believe that this proactive business-building will strengthen the execution engine, help achieve objectives with planned precision and enhance revenue visibility.

How bright is Emami’s future?

The Indian consumer goods industry is poised for a shot in the arm following the proposed GST introduction and other industry-friendly initiatives like Smart Cities and Make in India. This will widen the pool of young working professionals with increased disposable incomes.

Emami is at the right place at the right time. The Company should be able to grow twice the rate of India’s GDP growth on the back of prudent recruitment, skill enhancement, streamlined processes and continuous innovation.

EMAMI'S INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS PRESENCE

Emami is more than just another Indian exporter of personal and health care products; it is the flag bearer for the Indian FMCG industry with a viable manufacturing base abroad (in Bangladesh), which contributes 25% of international business, while addressing 80% of the local demand.

Emami customises products as per geographic preferences, market needs, competitive environments and local regulatory rules propelled by the belief that one size does not necessarily fit all.

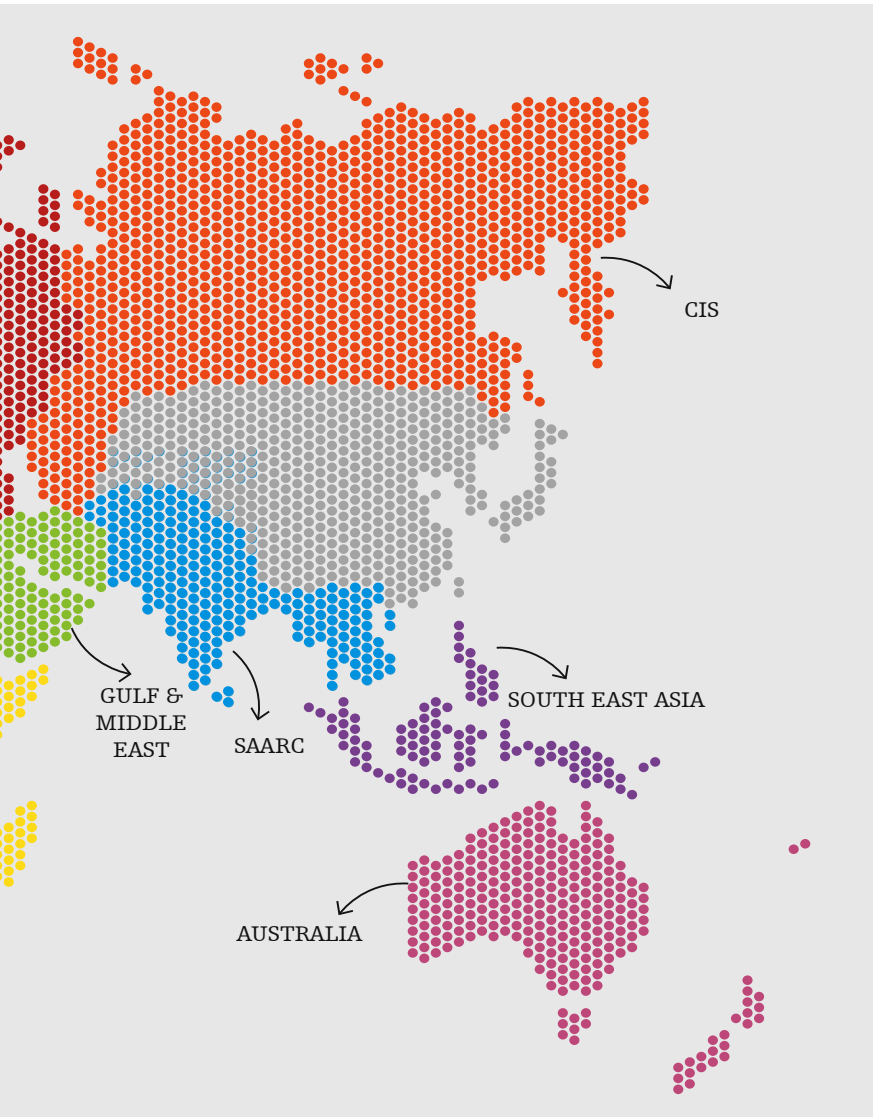

Emami's international business is driven by clusters: MENAP (the Middle East, North Africa and Pakistan), SSEA (the SAARC nations and South East Asia), CISEE (the CIS and Eastern European nations) and RoW (rest of the world). These clusters are headed by professionals with thorough knowledge of the regions they operate in.

Emami's international business – ₹365 crore in quantum terms – grew by 15% in FY16 despite economic vulnerabilities, currency devaluation, declining oil prices, geopolitical tensions (the Middle East and Ukraine) and earthquake in Nepal.

Emami outperformed in the MENAP (specifically Gulf countries) and SSEA (the SAARC nations and South East Asia) markets, growing by 38% and 26%, respectively.

HOW EMAMI PLANS TO CONSOLIDATE ITS GLOBAL BUSINESS OVER THE NEXT FIVE YEARS

- Strengthen presence in core geographies (Gulf countries, Bangladesh, Russia and CIS countries) through existing brands and strategic launches
- Extend existing brands into new or smaller geographies (North Africa, Sub-Saharan Africa and South East Asia)
- Accelerate innovation in terms of product mix – from the Indian innovation pipeline perspective and from the international market perspective
- Deploy talented personnel to handle critical responsibilities
- Moderate costs and advance IT-enabled support

Kingly step

How the Kesh King acquisition advanced Emami's growth strategy.

While Emami's organic growth is best among peers, its inorganic growth is also encouraging.

Through the organic route, the Company enhances the sale of existing products and innovations through prudent positioning.

Through the inorganic route, it acquires businesses and widens consumer choice.

Kesh King - acquisition overview

There has been a gradual churn in the hair care category. Cities have become increasingly polluted; general hair health has begun to decline and consumers have started to seek hair care solutions that extend beyond the functional to the therapeutic.

These recent developments warranted that Emami enrich its category mix with ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care offerings.

The result: Emami selected to seek attractive ayurvedic medicinal oil offerings before identifying Kesh King as a suitable target.

"Hair oil application is deeply ingrained in the Indian consumer psyche. We believe that a combination of the right inputs, right leveraging of the consumer insight, can lead to attractive head room for growth, especially in the ayurvedic medicinal oil category. Kesh King is synergic to Emami's vision. We have many exciting new initiatives in the pipeline, some of which have already kick-started the brand's growth. We are aggressively planning an execution phase and strengthening the portfolio further. We believe that Kesh King, which has already started contributing significantly to the Company's topline, will emerge as a key business driver in the years ahead." – Priti A Sureka, Director

Kesh King combines the goodness of 21 ayurvedic ingredients, addressing multiple hair and scalp problems including hair fall, dandruff, dry hair and hair breakage.

Sania Mirza

Kesh King – the brand

• Consumers across India swore by Kesh King, India’s leading ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care brand, for some good reasons.

- The brand extended beyond the functional to the therapeutic.
- The brand addressed issues like premature greying, dandruff, hair fall, split hair, hair loss, insomnia and headaches.
- The brand provided an ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care solution in a world increasingly populated with chemical-based personal care products.
- The brand provided a complete ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care solution (aloe vera-based herbal shampoo and ayurvedic capsules) as opposed to brands that provided piece-meal remedies.
- The brand leveraged the extensive richness of India’s ayurvedic heritage; Kesh King is made from the extracts of 21 medicinal herbs.
- The brand is a category leader, accounting for a 36% market share (by value).

The acquisition

The acquisition of the hair and scalp care business of Kesh King advanced Emami’s growth strategy in a number of ways:

- Emami has been the torchbearer for ayurvedic health and personal care solutions; the addition of an ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care brand represented the perfect addition to Emami’s portfolio.
- There was a large discrepancy between hair oil penetration in India (in excess of 80%) and that of ayurvedic medicinal oils (8%), which is likely to be progressively corrected. The reality is that even though hair oils are preferred for functional and nutritional reasons, there is a growing demand for benign (read ayurvedic) all-round products which provide therapeutic benefits. Kesh King combines the goodness of 21 ayurvedic ingredients, addressing multiple hair and scalp problems including hair fall, dandruff, dry hair and hair breakage.

- The acquisition of a category leader represented a superior choice than building a brand from scratch as the brand was already a leader in the ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care oil category.

The visibility exercises in Eastern and Southern market is expected to drive growth.

- Besides, Emami needed to reposition products beyond the functional to the therapeutic in a cost-competitive manner – the answer being Kesh King.

The financing

The ₹1,684-crore acquisition (including duties and taxes), funded equally through cash and debt, was fiscally responsible. Here’s why: the acquisition – the largest in Emami’s existence – will not compromise Emami’s ability to service shareholders; on the contrary, Emami is optimistic that the acquisition will progressively emerge value-accretive and that the inherent Kesh King fundamentals will translate into enhanced revenues and surpluses for Emami.

Post-acquisition developments

The Company supported the brand with TV as well as press campaigns. It engaged Shruti Haasan and Sania Mirza to endorse the brand with the current brand ambassador Juhi Chawla. The brand was promoted through below the line activations including fairs and festivals including Kumbh Mela and Sawaan Mela. The brand was previously available only in higher-sized SKUs and not conducive for increased trial use. As a corrective step, the Company launched a 60 ml SKU targeted at trial use. The Company also enriched the formulation by increasing the number of herbs from 16 to 21 to make it more effective. The key markets of North and West did well. The visibility exercises in Eastern and Southern market are expected to drive growth. The Company is focusing strongly on shampoo and capsules, creating a communication to drive growth. It had a tie-up with 2015 blockbuster hit Bajirao Mastani for promotion besides ads in multiplexes and general entertainment channels. The brand offers a complete range for ayurvedic medicinal hair and scalp care; Emami’s growing focus will drive the growth of the entire range.

BOROPLUS. NOT COSMETIC

“THE AGGRESSIVE MARKETING AND POSITIONING OF BOROPLUS AS A MULTIPURPOSE SKIN SOLUTION HELPED THE BRAND MAINTAIN LEADERSHIP DESPITE 2015-16 BEING ONE OF THE WEAKEST WINTERS FOR THE ENTIRE WINTER CARE CATEGORY.” – PRITI A SUREKA, DIRECTOR

Emami's BoroPlus. #1 in the antiseptic cream category in India. Capitalising on 32 years of trust. The first choice of millions across countries. A staggering 77% domestic volume market share. Made from herbal ingredients (tulsi, chandan, haldi, neem and aloe vera). More than an antiseptic cream – offering multiple therapeutic benefits.

Sustained success

In a world where preferences evolve every single day, there is actually a product that is 32 years old and growing. Say hello to BoroPlus. A brand that was launched in the year Azharuddin made his Test debut. Grew through the Tendulkar years and has retained its numero uno position in the Virat Kohli era.

So, what accounts for BoroPlus's endurance in such a precarious marketplace?

ONE, Emami prudently invested in the brand at crucial junctures, making it possible for the brand to stay relevant.

TWO, Emami evolved BoroPlus from just a winter product to a comprehensive skin solution.

THREE, Emami infused superior ayurvedic ingredients in BoroPlus offering multiple benefits.

FOUR, Emami engaged celebrities like Amitabh Bachchan, Kareena Kapoor and Kangana Ranaut to enhance brand visibility.

FIVE, Emami repackaged the product in a modern moisturising format to drive offtake.

THE RESULT: even though 2015-16 was marked by one of the weakest winters that affected the entire winter care category, BoroPlus maintained its leadership.

Extensions

Following the successful launch of two variants (badam milk cream as well as grape and olive oil), Emami launched BoroPlus Cocoa Soft Lotion infused with the goodness of chocolate. With seven-times more moisturising action than conventional options, the BoroPlus Cocoa Soft Moisturising Lotion ensures a soft and smooth skin. In line with the product's indulgent, premium and aspirational positioning, Emami enlisted Parineeti Chopra as a brand ambassador. Then came prudent marketing. The brand was promoted across digital and customised campaigns were launched coinciding with major festivals.

Road ahead

Going ahead, Emami will strengthen its communication to moderate its dependence on climatic factors, considering that winters are erratic and brief. Besides, the Company intends to introduce more variants customised around emerging needs.

Did you know?

A new campaign featuring Amitabh Bachchan and Kangana Ranaut (directed by Raj Kumar Hirani) in 2015-16 highlighted unique multipurpose benefits of BoroPlus. The brand's 360° campaign went viral over the internet.

The number of years of the enduring BoroPlus success story

In today's information-cluttered environment, the question is not whether one advertises or not; the question is which media vehicle would serve as the most effective means of communication. Emami deployed a dedicated team to analyse consumer trends to achieve a balanced media mix and carry its message to millions of households across India.

Emami invested ₹ 531 crore in brand building and promotions in 2015-16, one of the largest spends in India's FMCG sector. This investment accounted for nearly 24% of the total costs incurred by the Company. However, the fact remained that incremental branding expenditure could only do so much. One needed to ensure that the brand spending was effective.

"What we were worried about was not whether we would have the adequate resources to promote the brand but whether we were promoting our products in the right spaces to get the desired revenue kick," says Harsha V. Agarwal, Director.

Not without reason. A growing number of urbanites are moving from print to reading online; a number of them log on to e-commerce sites for hours; just about everybody is hanging out on Facebook and other social networks.

So where must one promote one's brands? Where does one showcase new or acquired brands? How much resource does one allocate towards these new launches? And, pray, what is the target audience – the go-for-tried-and-tested 30 year-old or the try-anything-new 23 year-old?

"One of our priorities during FY16 was to figure out what was the most effective means of reaching out to or widening the consumer base," says Harsha V. Agarwal. "This increased our A&P costs by 35% with new brands accounting for nearly 28% of our overall A&P spends."

The key lay in deciding the right language and channel of communication for specific products. "While Kesh King was promoted through newspapers – vernacular and national – BoroPlus, Fair and Handsome and Navratna were promoted through television commercials and HE deodorants via the digital medium," says Harsha V.

Agarwal.

"Most people recall audiovisual experiences better than print ads. Most people recall the typical terms and phrases used in these ads longer, which serves as a recall trigger. The result is that we now allocate a major chunk of our media budget towards the audiovisual and even though online spending is growing, we need to enhance and exploit this medium more effectively," he adds.

Emami's ability to understand consumer minds translated into the engagement of popular film celebrities based on the conviction that celebrities possess the power to market dreams that consumers aspire for. Emami was one of the pioneers of celebrity endorsement in India, engaging regional state actors and sportspersons as well. In the 1980s when Rajesh Khanna popped up on cinema screens across India as the Chief of Emami in the film Agar Tum Na Hote, it was an innovation in the field of 'in-film branding' for Indian marketing history books. When people were exploring the idea of celebrity endorsers Emami was already a few steps ahead. The Company has an army of celebrities from different fields that have vouched for its products for decades. Navratna has engaged four prominent Indian film celebrities – Amitabh Bachchan, Shah Rukh Khan, Shruti Haasan and Shilpa Shetty. The Company also engaged Hrithik Roshan, popular for his youth appeal, to endorse Fair & Handsome Instant Fairness Face wash and the 'HE' range of deodorants. The Company also engaged Yami Gautam, Sania Mirza, Parineeti Chopra and Huma Qureshi to address the young audience.

Event sponsorships were exercised, like the Pro-Kabbadi League. The Company is the title sponsor of more than 10 national television programmes. Besides, with HD channels gaining prominence, Emami is betting big on the IPL to promote its brands.

ENHANCING EMAMI'S PRESENCE ON THE DIGITAL MEDIA

Websites

- Emami developed a dedicated website to promote its HE Deodorant (www.hebeinteresting.com), inviting inspirational anecdotes in exchange for prizes.
- Its male grooming website (www.handsomelife.com) invited personal stories of defying the odds; winners were provided an opportunity to meet brand ambassador Hrithik Roshan, participate in a weeklong grooming programme and spend a day with FC Pune City.

- Further, its web portal (www.malegroomingacademy.com) provided insights on the latest fashion trends.
- Emami also launched dedicated websites for BoroPlus (www.boroplushealthyskin.com), Zandu (www.zanduayurveda.com) and Kesh King (www.keshking.com) promoting ayurvedic health and wellness and enhancing the brand reach.

The result: The websites reported a cumulative footfall of more than 35 lac visitors and the Facebook pages reached out to nearly 8 crore users across the world in FY16.

App

The Company launched a 'My Skin, My City' app on the android platform to provide dermatological advice. Its stop-motion video comprised pictures by users. The online campaign celebrated Women's' Day and Christmas through a selfie event.

“EMAMI’S ENTREPRENEURISM IS MARKED BY ITS ABILITY TO TAKE BOLD AND QUICK DECISIONS.”

A CONVERSATION WITH
ANJAN CHATTERJEE,
FOUNDER,
SITUATIONS ADVERTISING

Q How did your association with Emami happen?

Emami issued a brief that a men’s fairness cream needed to be introduced and pitches were invited from agencies. It was identified that around 30% of the users of leading women’s fairness cream users were actually male. The finding kind of woke people up. The challenge was to graduate these male users to male fairness creams. A number of names were selected. Finally the ‘Fair and Handsome’ name was chosen.

Q. How did you contribute to the brand’s success?

Men were using women’s fairness creams ‘chhup-chhup ke’, the basis of our campaign. We needed to bring users out of the closet so that a man could ask for the product openly than use his sister’s ‘Lovely’ and feel embarrassed. That campaign was based on a real story. A friend in our hostel would use a women’s fairness cream. He would wrap the tube in a towel; once the towel slipped, the tube was exposed; we teased him about it and he went red in the face. So our advertisement was directed at this embarrassment, which explains its effectiveness.

Q. What is the best thing about working with Emami?

Emami’s entrepreneurialism is marked by its ability to take bold and quick decisions. Founders, RS Agarwal and RS Goenka rightly believe that too much analysis can lead to paralysis. The result is that when an opportunity is identified, the Company just goes for it. For instance, not many FMCG companies would have dared take on an MNC giant in its own backyard i.e. fairness creams.

What eventually transpired was that MNCs adapted products in line with Emami’s success - without quite catching up with Emami. The bottomline is that Emami possesses robust market-holding capabilities, which means that its early gains are sustained or enhanced, not relinquished.

Emami has progressively balanced the entrepreneurial with the professional. In the modern environment, data and analysis represent its decision-making backbone even as the final call is left to informed intuition. And here I must mention that even as Emami works with the best global consultants, the Company is not run by what the consultants say. I only hope that Emami does not let go of this entrepreneurial DNA.

Q. How is Emami doing things differently?

When Emami is convinced about a category’s potential, it will support it 100% with resources. Navratna is a case study; the category had gradually disintegrated and was marked by local Uttar Pradesh and Bihar-based players. Emami organised the segment, created a strategy, combined champion products with tactical ad campaigns. I mean few companies would dare to engage Amitabh Bachchan and Shah Rukh Khan for such products. The result: consumers identified with the products and Emami pulled off the impossible.

Q. What are some Emami qualities that you respect?

Most MNCs create a channel of multiple distributors, engage in test marketing and then launch the product. Emami is different in that it promotes a brand and lets consumers decide. In a classical way, the consumers prompt retailers, who in turn prompt wholesalers who in turn prompt distributors who in turn approach the Company.

How Emami reinforced its leadership in the balms category

The brand: The first reaction of millions of Indians on getting a headache inevitably is: 'Zara Zandu dena!'

- That's because Zandu is more than brand name; it is a generic name in India's pain management space with significant balm category presence.
- That's because Zandu comes with the reputation of more than 100 years of therapeutic relief from headaches, body aches and cold.
- That's because the Company resolved to stay ahead of the curve by kickstarting a project to rebrand the Zandu category, following acquisition.
- That's because this ayurvedic solution finds acceptance in more than 50 million Indian households.
- That's because Zandu occupies shelf space in more than 1.6 million retail outlets across India.
- That's because Zandu Balm and Emami Mentho Plus cumulatively account for nearly a 60% market share (by value) in India (Emami's Mentho Plus Balm is the largest-selling balm in Karnataka).
- That's because the Company responded to incipient needs by launching a stronger variant, Zandu Balm Ultra Power providing fast and long-lasting relief from headaches, backaches, knee pains, joint pains, neck and shoulder pains, sprains, muscle pains, inflammations and colds.

PERSONAL GROOMING PRODUCTS IN MEN'S BACKPACK?!

There was a time when the good young man on a weekend getaway would carry just four toiletries: toothbrush, toothpaste, shaving cartridge and soap. Across the last few years, there have been some interesting additions: shampoos, creams, face washes, hair gels, body wash and deodorants.

Emami had figured this out more than a decade ago.

The Company discovered that 30% fairness cream users were men.

Emami responded based on a deep understanding of men's specific skin needs, Emami launched Fair and Handsome in 2005 with a formulation designed specifically to work on men's tough skin.

MIRROR

ON THE WALL, WHO IS THE HANDSOMEST OF THEM ALL?

How Emami is helping men spend longer time grooming

"FAIR AND HANDSOME

as a brand from the very beginning enjoyed the equity of being a thought leader. The brand has consistently kept a pulse on changing consumer needs, and has retained the edge of a tough, masculine brand in the consumer's mind, by consistently reinventing itself to be relevant to the youth." – Mohan Goenka, Director

Even after a decade – an eternity in the competitive FMCG space – Fair and Handsome continues to be among the most trusted men’s grooming brands.

Because looking good is no longer about vanity, but is becoming a necessity. Because men are no longer apologetic about wanting to look good.

This is not an urban phenomenon either; rural menfolk are also spending more time in front of their mirrors and adopting new products and habits.

Shah Rukh Khan, the brand ambassador since 2007, has enabled the grooming message to be taken far, deeper and wider, building aspiration and stature for Fair and Handsome.

The result: Emami remains the undisputed leader in the men’s fairness cream category with a market share of 65% by volume.

Besides, the brand has remained fresh and relevant to consumers by consistently innovating on product formulation and packaging. The brand has also built powerful extensions to cater to consumer needs.

What started off as a standalone fairness cream is now a range of products with Fair and Handsome Instant Fairness Face Wash and Fair and Handsome Complete Winter Solution (winter skin care for men). Hrithik Roshan, an icon known for his well-groomed looks, joined Shah Rukh Khan as brand ambassador in 2015, expanding the league of handsome men associated with Fair and Handsome, through his first campaign on Face Wash.

There’s more. In 2015, Fair and Handsome, with the intent of strengthening it’s connect with the youth, launched #HandsomeLife, the first digital-only campaign of the brand and became the lead sponsor of FC Pune City for the 2015 Indian Super League Football season. #HandsomeLife built the idea of ‘handsomeness’ giving a platform for young men to share how they are following their passion to achieve their dreams: A consumer-interactive digital contest culminated with 10 winners getting a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to meet Hrithik Roshan. Besides, five renowned personalities (including David Platt, England’s former football captain) mentored the winners for a week. Winners went through career guidance sessions and got an opportunity to hang out with FC Pune City players.

The other product directed at the men’s grooming segment is HE deodorant. Emami relaunched the brand and also forayed into the ‘No Gas’ deodorant category, which comprises around 26% of the Indian deodorant market. The Company came out with an ‘Icy Cool’ variant set to revolutionise the deodorant category by offering a cooling effect with long-lasting fragrance during the sweltering summer.

The big message: although the men’s grooming space is still nascent in India, the future appears bright across categories, geographies and demographics.

Men have seen nothing yet (or make that women!).

“EVEN as the competitive deodorant space is marked by players offering almost similar products, the category enjoys attractive potential on account of low penetration (8%). Besides, the Indian consumer is always experimenting. This is best showcased by the differentiated ‘Be Interesting’ positioning of HE which addressed alpha males who like to stand out of the crowd. The launch of ‘Icy Cool collection’ and the HE Respect campaign are expected to carve out distinctive mind and market shares for the brand.” – Harsha V. Agarwal, Director

Indian economy

India's GDP is expected to grow by 7.6% in 2015-16 compared to 7.2% in 2014-15. This will make India the fastest growing economy ahead of China. The devaluation of the yuan, continuing slide in commodity prices and dollar outflows from emerging markets had cast a doubt on whether India would be able to sustain its retrospective

GDP growth average.

The 2016 Union Budget introduced decisive measures to catalyse the country's rural economy and business sentiment. Strong private consumption should continue to fuel robust growth, going forward. However, a delay in the implementation of reforms may limit progress. The Finance Ministry is optimistic of 8%+ GDP growth based on the anticipations of a robust monsoon in 2016.

Indian FMCG industry

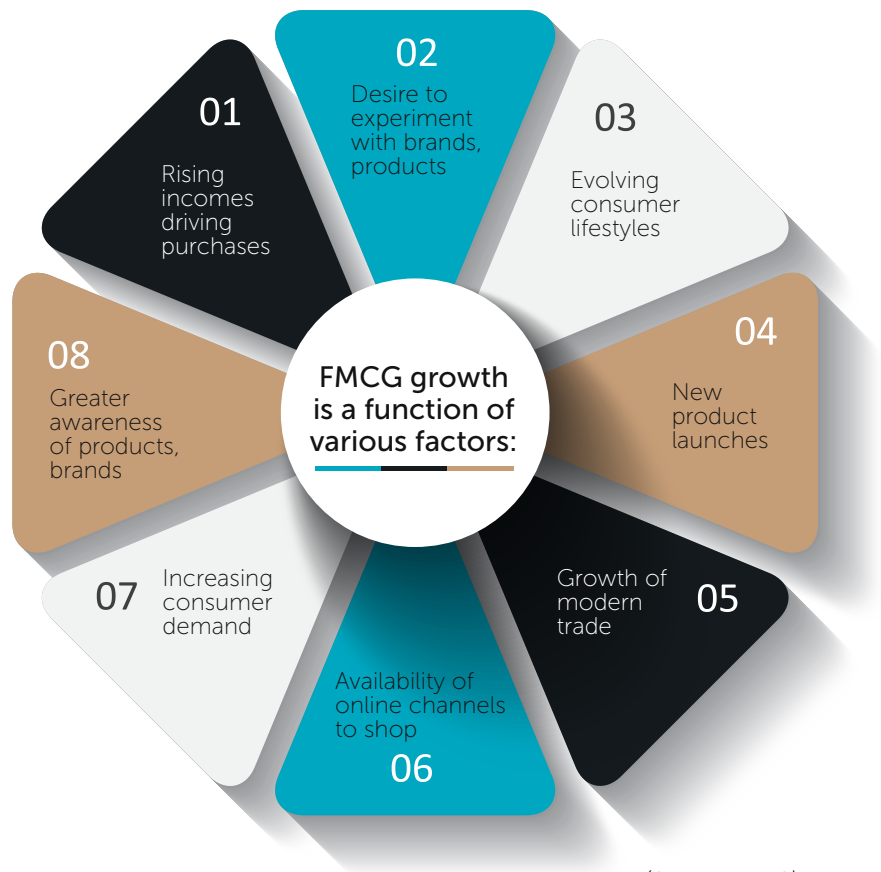

The Indian FMCG sector grew at an annual average of 11% over the last decade. The overall FMCG market is expected to increase at a CAGR of 14.7% to touch US$ 110.4 billion between 2012 and 2020, with the rural FMCG segment anticipated to increase at a CAGR of 17.7% to reach US$ 100 billion between 2012 and 2025. Growing awareness, easier access and changing lifestyles have been the key growth drivers of the consumer market. The Government of India's policies and regulatory frameworks, such as a relaxation of license rules and approval of 51%-FDI in multi-brand and 100% in single-brand retail, have proved to be major growth drivers (Source: IBEF).

Macroeconomic trends are expected to make India the fifth largest consumer market by 2030, providing a big opportunity for retail and consumer goods sectors, especially FMCG. (Source: KPMG-FICCI)

(Source: PwC)

Demand drivers

- Growing population: India's population (1.27 billion+) growing at an annual rate of around 1.25% is expected to drive demand growth sustainably.
- Increasing incomes: According to the CSO, the per capita income in real terms (at 2011-12 prices) during 2015-16 was likely to have been ₹ 77,431 compared to ₹ 72,889 for 2014-15.
- Digital influence: According to a BCG-CII report, more than 150 million consumers would be digitally-influenced by the FMCG sector in India by 2020. With decision-making processes increasingly being influenced by digital sources, these consumers would spend more than US$45 billion (roughly ₹ 2,98,323 crore) on

FMCG products. [Source: NDTV]

- Rural focus: With rural India accounting for around 50% of the country's workforce, the potential of the country's rural market appears robust.
- Escalating urbanisation: India has the second largest urban population with the fifth largest urban land coverage. The growing urban population represents a strong opportunity for FMCG companies.
- Government initiatives: The recently introduced 'One Rank One Pension' scheme and the hikes announced by the Seventh Pay Commission are expected to boost consumption.
- Burgeoning workforce: The proportion of people in the workforce has risen considerably and will continue to rise. By 2030, India will constitute 28% of the world's workforce with the workers-to-dependents ratio expected to be higher than 2.1 (up from 1.4 in 1990).

- Youthful population: India is a country with a median age of 27 years, which represents a younger, increasingly connected and digitally savvy population. This segment will drive the digital economy and will consume incremental quantities of new and innovative products.

- Discretionary spending: According to Euromonitor, non-food consumption in India has increased from 53% in 1990 to 69% in 2014, reflecting the country's growing affinity towards discretionary spending.

Impact of proposed GST on the FMCG sector

- Elimination of cascading tax is expected to lower input costs and improve profitability.
- Unorganised sector to shrink as differential tax rate, which currently incentivises small-scale manufacturers to report no sales, will be eliminated.
- Re-evaluation of procurement and distribution arrangements, removing state-specific taxes and simplifying supply chain. Tax refunds on goods purchased for resale will imply significant inventory reduction.

Consumer confidence

Consumer confidence in India, reported by Nielsen, remained unchanged at 131 since Q1FY16, the highest among the 61 countries part of the review. Consumer confidence in India averaged 121.38 from 2009 until 2015, reaching an all-time high of 131 in the third quarter of FY16. With consumer confidence remaining stable, FMCG companies can expect steady levels of consumption in urban centres.

However, Indians on the whole, continued to remain cautious following successive weak monsoons. This was reflected in the MNI India Consumer Sentiment Index which declined during the financial year under review.

Innovation

Innovation not only entails creating, launching and marketing new products, but also includes improving shopping experience and providing consumers with a range of tools to purchase products. As Indian consumers become more globalised in their aspirations, as they travel abroad more frequently and are exposed to global products, domestic demand will only increase. To meet this demand, FMCG companies need to focus on improving their R&D and innovation capabilities. At the same time, product lifecycles are shrinking and companies across categories are launching new products more often.

The growing significance of e-commerce

The smaller towns and cities of India are expected to play a more significant role in shaping future demand trends in the FMCG sector. The FMCG segment will contribute increasingly larger shares of sales for e-commerce companies. It is estimated that by 2020, by more than 150 million consumers would buy FMCG products via e-commerce portals.

The combined effect of demographic shifts and emergence of e-commerce and proliferation of internet connections will open up new vistas for the Indian FMCG sector. (Source: Economic Times)

Optimism

The long-term prospects of the Indian FMCG sector continued to remain optimistic. The receding impact of El Nino and a better monsoon over the next few years could strengthen the rural economy catalyse consumption.

India's income distribution is poised to see a significant change over the next decade. The increase in absolute incomes and changes in distribution are expected to be key drivers of growth. By 2025, 22 million additional households will be added to 'elite' and 'affluent' classes (i.e. households with income over ₹10 lac per annum).

'Strugglers' (i.e. households with income less than ₹1.5 lac per annum) currently account for 43% of the population. By 2025, they will comprise just 28% of the total population.

Subsequently, India's average household income is likely to increase by 1.7x by 2025. This increase in household income is expected to accelerate offtake for Indian FMCG companies.

Risk management

A corporate is exposed to various risks owing to various business transactions it undertakes. The risks are classified broadly into two parts – external and internal risks. External risks can be attributed to various macroeconomic risks faced by the Company like industry risk, consumer risk, currency fluctuation risks, crude volatility risk as well as climatic risks. The internal risks comprise operational risks, raw material uncertainty risk, cost risks, innovation risks, human capital risks and financial risks among others. The Company has a strong risk management model in place which identifies the key external and internal risks associated with the Company, assesses the probable impacts on the Company. Thereafter mitigation measures are evaluated and suitable changes are made keeping in mind evolving business scenarios.

The risk management process encompasses practices relating to identification, assessment, monitoring and mitigation of various risks that might threaten the realisation of key business objectives. Besides exploiting emerging business opportunities, the risk management process seeks to minimise adverse impacts of risks.

The Company has a comprehensive ISO 31000:2009-certified Enterprise Risk Management system at work, which identifies key external and internal risks and assesses their probable impact to devise adequate mitigation measures.

The Company has also framed a comprehensive Enterprise Risk Management Policy not only to manage the risks but also to minimise its impact.

This policy is periodically reviewed by the Board of Directors, management on a quarterly basis along with the Audit Committee and the Risk Management Committee in consultation with reputed consultants. The policy is updated at regular intervals so as to ensure that emerging risks are properly dealt with.

Emami... A bullish proposition

"From a long-term perspective, we see Emami entering a high growth phase over the next 5-10 years as the company moves beyond its core strengths in niche segments and supplements it with high growth personal care and health care products"

-Credit Suisse,
30th November 2015

"Emami's success in the last decade has been impressive. As a home-grown producer of FMCG, it is now the owner of a number of formidable, leading personal care brands, which are dominant in their market segments. Emami stands out in that it has the highest margins in its peer group among our coverage, even though it focuses on the mass consumer market and 50% of its sales are from rural India, where most companies find revenue contributions to be margin dilutive. In our view, this is the result of Emami's carefully chosen market segments and its astute business strategy."

-HSBC, 31st August 2015

"Emami has a strong history of successfully turning around acquisitions and has consistently taken steps to create a differentiated product pipeline, rather than engaging in second or third launches within existing categories"

-UBS,
6th August 2015

"Despite the seasonality impact, Emami has been able to maintain consistent growth across all its focus brands. The company over the past six years has maintained 11-27% revenue CAGRs across its entire portfolio of power brands, i.e., Navratna, Boroplus, Fair & Handsome, Zandu and Mentho Plus. This constant growth has enabled the company to scale up its key brands."

-Nomura,
7th December 2015

"We are enthused by the acquisition of Kesh King brand which is a unique offering with high margin and has good consumer traction. We expect Emami to exploit the strong brand equity by launching brand extensions; Emami had successfully accomplished this with Zandu acquisition"

Success through 'innovision'

"Emami has done well for itself," says Jagdeep Kapoor, founder CMD, Samsika Marketing Consultancy. "It is one of the few companies which respects brands, understand brands, and has the ability to make the brands work for consumers and pay for itself."

As a result, despite being the youngest, among the Indian FMCG companies, Emami has the highest operating margins at 30.2% , higher than Dabur and Marico, which are under 20% and Godrej Consumer, a little over 20%.

"Through the organic and inorganic growth, we have been able to take our brands to respectable levels and today we can humbly boast of being No.1 or No. 2 in most categories.

Emami takes a big leap

Brand experts believe that Emami, with its high advertisement spending can make Kesh King a household name. "A lot of thinking goes behind every ad campaign, so that customers can identify themselves with it; I believe with successful campaigns, the company can turn this into a multi-million brand," said Alyque Padamsee who has been advising Emami for the last 15 years. The latest acquisition will make Emami the biggest player in the ayurvedic hair oil category, estimated at about Rs 300 crore.

Street gives thumbs up to Kesh King deal

Most analysts are positive on Emami's recent move to acquire the hair and scalp care business of Kesh King and allied brands for Rs. 1,651 crore. Inexpensive deal valuations, leading positions of the acquired products in the category, higher EBIDTA margin and growing demand for ayurvedic and herbal products are some reasons behind this optimism.

Sheeran Goenka, founders of Indian FMCG major Emami Limited, have defied. They have been childhood friends and then business partners for over 40 years. Initially opting for corporate careers, in the early 1970s, Agarwal joined the Aditya Birla Group and Goenka the KIL Birla Group—early jobs they abandoned to embark on an entrepreneurial journey. The two have also faced the ups and downs of entrepreneurship together as business partners since 1974, when they set up Kinross Chemicals (a partnership firm which later morphed into Emami Ltd), an ayurvedic medicine and cosmetics manufacturing unit, in Kolkata. It was a bold move for the '70s, when the Indian FMCG market was dominated by foreign products. Yet, the strong innovation ethos of the founders helped their first products—calcium powder, vanishing face cream and cold cream—gain a foothold in the market. "There was a huge demand for our vanishing cream across the country when we launched it. At that time, most of the Indian products in the market were packaged in tin containers, but we introduced plastic containers with labels printed on imported paper, making it look like a foreign product," recalls 70-year-old Agarwal. Four decades later, this penchant for innovation and differentiation continues to be at the core of Emami's business. In fact, today it is not just about product differentiation, but disruption as well. "Disrupt or die," is the business mantra of Agarwal, executive chairman of the

Rs 2,217-crore consumer goods company.

INVENTING A NEW WHEEL

In the early 2000s, Emami displayed its ability to disrupt the market when it created a new product category—men's fairness cream. Launched in 2004, Fair and Handsome gave

Mover and Shaker

"Disrupt or die," is the business mantra of Agarwal, executive chairman of the Rs. 2,217-crore consumer goods company.

Global majors such as Germany's Beiersdorf AG and L'Oreal have launched a slew of men's skin care products. But most of them had missed the bus when it came to men's fairness creams. "Even global giants like HUL could not envision a category like this. When HUL is in a particular market, it is usually the brand leader, but in the men's fairness product category, Emami is perched well on top," says veteran adman Alyque Padamsee, who has been advising Emami's advertising team for 15 years.

Directors' Report

Dear Shareholders

Your Directors have immense pleasure in presenting their report on the business and operations of the Company and audited accounts for the financial year ended March 31, 2016.

1. Performance Highlights

The Indian FMCG sector witnessed yet another year of challenges – weaker monsoon, erratic weather conditions, lower industrial growth, lower disposable income particularly in the rural areas and an overall sluggish consumer sentiment. Global environment too was very weak and volatile. This gloomy outlook also reflected in the performance of the stock market which contracted ~ 9% during the last fiscal. The FMCG sector was, thus not an exception.

Your company however, continued to outpace its peers and strengthen its position in the segments of its presence, despite a challenging macro-economic environment. Your company continued to increase its market shares in the domestic and international markets. While all the power brands: BoroPlus, Navratna, Zandu, Mentho Plus, Fair & Handsome and Pancharishtha have performed well, new launches like 7-Oils-in-One, Zandu Pure Honey and Fair & Handsome Instant Fairness Face Wash also received encouraging response from the market. Kesh King overcame its post-acquisition teething problems and started performing as per expectation and increased the market share.

While the domestic business has grown by 19.5%, international business has also achieved remarkable growth of 15% despite high currency fluctuations and low consumer offtake in focussed markets like CIS & many African regions. The company took many initiatives to achieve the aggressive topline yet meaningful bottom-line growth. It acquired Kesh King business at an outlay of Rs. 1684 crores (includes duties and taxes). Increased marketing spends by 35% to Rs. 531 crores and introduced further variants/new launches. Steps were taken to increase coverage in general trade and penetration in the modern trade. Many initiatives of improving efficiency and reducing costs were taken up under project "Udaan". McKinsey was roped in to spearhead the "Udaan" projects which also included formulation of long term strategy for international business. All the above initiatives have resulted in a spectacular growth of 18.3% in the topline at Rs. 2624 crores and 26.6% growth in EBIDTA at Rs. 684 crores.

Overall, the performance has been satisfactory despite economic and industry challenges. With the long-awaited strategic reforms of economy on the anvil and industry poised for exponential growth, your Company is attractively positioned to take benefit of this growing opportunity. Emami therefore looks to the future with optimism and confidence.

Annexure -B to the Independent Auditors' Report

Report on the Internal Financial Controls under Clause (i) of Sub-section 3 of Section 143 of the Companies Act, 2013 ("the Act")

We have audited the Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting of Emami Limited ("the Company") as on 31 March 2016 in conjunction with our audit of the Standalone Financial Statements of the Company for the year ended on that date.

Management's Responsibility for Internal Financial Controls

The Company's management is responsible for establishing and maintaining Internal Financial Controls based on the internal control over financial reporting criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India ('ICAI'). These responsibilities include the design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls that were operating effectively for ensuring the orderly and efficient conduct of its business, including adherence to company's policies, the safeguarding of its assets, the prevention and detection of frauds and errors, the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, and the timely preparation of reliable financial information, as required under the Companies Act, 2013.

Auditors' Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting

(the "Guidance Note") and the Standards on Auditing, issued by ICAI and deemed to be prescribed under section 143(10) of the Companies Act, 2013, to the extent applicable to an audit of internal financial controls, both applicable to an audit of Internal Financial Controls and, both issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. Those Standards and the Guidance Note require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether adequate internal financial controls over financial reporting was established and maintained and if such controls operated effectively in all material respects.

Our audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the adequacy of the Internal Financial Controls system over financial reporting and their operating effectiveness. Our audit of Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting included obtaining an understanding of Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. The procedures selected depend on the Auditors' Judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion on the Company's internal financial controls system over financial reporting.

Meaning of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting

A Company's Internal Financial Control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A Internal Financial Control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorisations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorised acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Inherent Limitations of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting

Because of the inherent limitations of Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting, including the possibility of collusion or improper management override of controls, material misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projections of any evaluation of the Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting to future periods are subject to the risk that the Internal Financial Control over financial reporting may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Opinion

In our opinion, the Company has, in all material respects, an adequate internal financial controls system over financial reporting and such Internal Financial Controls over financial reporting were operating effectively as at 31 March 2016, based on the internal control over financial reporting criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India.
